Impact of COVID-19 Pandemic on Women Violence

Gunjan Patil, Damini Sharma,
Preeti Shah and Ramesh

VIOLENCE is the use of physical force so as to injure, abuse, damage, or destroy (Webster dictionary 2019). There are so many ways violence is forced on different people like a child, females, males, workers, and labourers. If the victim is a woman then it is called women violence. Violence against women can cause considerable physical, psychological, sexual, and reproductive health concerns, as well as sexually transmitted diseases (WHO, 2019). In the year 2019, the COVID-19 pandemic unpredicted situation was faced by the world. Still, there are some unpredicted adverse conditions always happening since 2019. Various casualties occurred during the pandemic in the world and so many people lost their life. New terms like social distancing, quarantine period, isolation, contagious disease and lockdown have been introduced in the common man's life. The situation was unpredictable, so it negatively influences everyone with different issues.

There were symptoms of the disease also new for everyone with lots of confusion because of insufficient medical facilities for the diagnosis. Lack of information with limited medical facilities has created mental and physical pressure on people. Whether any, preplan and future outcomes lockdown has been imposed in the world and in India also. So, various problems arise without a solution. The problems came in the form of the
